Dear Mr. Dulles:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter just received from Gisevius. Have you any suggestions as to what sort of letter I should write to help him with his visa? If not, I will write the usual statement that it is important to have the author in this country at the time his book is published - although I cannot honestly put this time before late summer at the earliest. In fact, I don't know what in Heaven's name I'll do with him if he turns up in May looking for action.

The last of the manuscript is now at the printers, and I look forward to receiving your introduction. Don't kill yourself to get it off, however, if you are terribly busy. If we can count on getting it some time within the next two weeks, we'll be safe.

I am also looking forward eagerly to seeing the proofs of your own book. The announcements make it sound very interesting indeed.

Best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Paul Brooks
